

trend

1

2

3

Inflated curves

Walk into a teenager's bedroom in the early 2000s and there was a high likelihood of seeing a blow-up chair. A questionable furniture phenomenon of the Noughties, these pieces are the unlikely style forefathers of one of the biggest Y2K trends of all: supersized curves. It's been impossible to ignore the rise of these fun, plumped-up designs. There's something incredibly comforting and inviting about them – so don't expect the bubble to pop anytime soon.

5

4

10

8

7

9

- 1 'Loop, Designer's Edition' sofas by Raw Color, from £2,615, Sancal (sancal.com)
- 2 'Cloud' mug and saucer, £29, Tutu (tutuhome.shop)
- 3 'Bloc Light' stool, £520, Kate Boccaccini Meadows (kateboccaccinimeadows.com)
- 4 'Model MW03' chair by Olivier Santini, approx £4,422, Mojow (mojow-mobiliers.ch)
- 5 'Varmblixi' serving bowl by Sabine Marcelis, £19, Ikea (ikea.com)
- 6 'Cloud II' fabric in 'Blossom', £166.50 per m, Kirkby Design (kirkbydesign.com)
- 7 'Ingres' wall lamp by Atelier Baptiste & Jaina, approx £698, Moustache (moustache.fr)
- 8 'T4' chair by Holloway Li, price on application, Uma Objects (umaobjects.com)
- 9 'Le Mura' daybed by Mario Bellini, approx £2,662, Tacchini (tacchini.it)
- 10 'Tito' bed by Drago & Aurel, price on application, Rossana Orlandi (rossanaorlandi.com) ED